

ITALY DECLARES WAR ON NAZI GERMANY

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

ITALY'S declaration of war on Germany represents both a moral and a material gain for the Allies.

It may well be that the moral advantage will be the greater, for by this revolt Germany is branded before civilization for ferocious barbarities, which, as Premier Badoglio puts it, have "surpassed even the limit of the human imagination." However, the Italians still can give considerable material aid to the Allies in the drive up the peninsula, and in forthcoming amphibious operations elsewhere the small but powerful Italian navy should serve the United Nations well.

The declaration doesn't in any way alter the terms of the armistice. Italy is not an "ally" in the accepted sense of the term, but as a "co-belligerent" must pay the penalty—and pay dearly—for her partnership in the Axis.

It is a striking coincidence that Italy should have taken this step just as Portugal implemented her bond of friendship with Britain.

PORTUGAL'S "sturdy" move in permitting the Allies to use the Azores as a base was given as a powerful new weapon with which to combat the U-boat menace, but one of the most impressive aspects of the concession is the fact that this peanut-size country is the first of the little European neutrals to look Hitler squarely in the eye and say "who's afraid of the big, bad wolf?"

The British press today is speculating hopefully whether Portugal may be the spear-head to open the way or other neutrals and non-belligerents. So far, Europe is concerned, Sweden and Turkey are possible. And we shouldn't overlook the small Axis satellites—Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary—which are eagerly trying to find an escape from Hitler's clutch.

Some observers also seem to feel that Portugal's action in granting a base in the Azores, while still maintaining neutrality on the continent, establishes a precedent under which Russia might lease the Allies air bases in Siberia, thereby immeasurably shortening the war against Japan. Certainly the precedent is interesting and perhaps useful, but I think we may take it for granted that any such move by Russia would be premised on a mutually satisfactory understanding on all disputed points at the coming Moscow conference among representatives of the big three—Russia, Britain and America.

From the military standpoint the Azores are a Godsend to the Allies. There has been a "blind spot" in the Atlantic submarine warfare which neither American nor British land-based warplanes could reach because of the great distance. The Allied aerial assault on the U-boats has been devastating when the submarines were within range of our east coast or the British Isles, but this blind spot has provided a fruitful

United States, Britain Acquire Anti-Sub Bases In Azores From Portugal

Strategically located bases in the Azores, athwart vital Atlantic shipping and sea lanes, have been granted by Portugal to the United States by neutral Portugal on the basis of a 570-year-old pact with England. Better of the two excellent harbors in the islands is Ponta Delgada, shown in view at left, where U. S. Marines built an airfield during World War I. It is located on Sao Miguel island. Strategic location of the Azores in relation to Allied bases and ports is shown on the map, right. (International).

Lend-Lease Probe Demands In Congress Grow Louder

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Congressional demands for an investigation of Lend-Lease sharpened today despite President Roosevelt's assertion that this is no time to be stirring up bitterness.

Senator Nye (R-ND) declared the subject of Lend-Lease will be very much under consideration when the senate appropriations committee meets during the day. This committee passed on lend-lease outlays totaling almost $14,000,000 up to July 31.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), casting on the administration to start "bargaining now" with Allied beneficiaries, told the senate he would move for a separate investigation group unless the appropriations committee or the Truman committee undertakes the job soon.

The investigation demands stem largely from the observations brought back by five senators who recently toured the battle areas.

President Roosevelt challenged statements made by some of the senators and told his press-radio conference yesterday that remarks made by public servants which are not carefully thought out tend to create bitterness.

While the President was talking with reporters, however, Ellender was demanding in the senate to know if Lend-Lease is to be a "one-way street."

"I don't expect China ever to repay what we have given her," he said, "and I don't think Russia can do it at this time, but I do believe that Great Britain could help us by giving back some of the materials we have been furnishing her."

Ellender, who was not a member of the senate's war inspection group, said he thought congress ought to find out whether Britain isn't able to pay cash for goods shipped to her for civilian use, saying "we have been getting I. O. U's."

LONDON, Oct. 13.—British newspapers, apparently reflecting the general opinion here, today hailed Portugal's action in granting British naval and air bases in the Azores as another proof of Germany's waning military strength.

There was growing hope, too, that Elre, Turkey and other neutral nations might follow Portugal's example and extend military facilities to the United Nations. Britain and Turkey are parties to a treaty similar to the 570-year-old Portuguese-British agreement under which yesterday's action was taken.

DEBATE BEGINS ON SERVICE PAY

Two-Front Congressional Fight Over Father Draft Under Way

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—A two-front congressional fight over the father draft issue got underway today with the full house membership beginning debate on a new allotment-allowance proposal and a military subcommittee re-drafting legislation to delay the induction of pre-war fathers.

A party fight threatened to erupt over the amount of payments to be made to dependents of servicemen of enlisted grade.

Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts announced he would support an amendment by Rep. Clason (R-Mass.) to boost the payments to $80 monthly for a wife and one child, with $20 extra for each additional child.

This scale was approved by the senate last week, but the Democratic-controlled house committee recommended $75 monthly for a wife and one child, and $15 for each additional child.

Present payments, including the $22 deduction from the serviceman's check which would remain unchanged under the new proposals, are $62 for a wife and one child and $10 for each additional child.

None of the new plans would boost the $50 a month now paid a wife only.

While the house tackled the allowance question, with a vote not expected before late Thursday or Friday, a subcommittee headed by Rep. Costello (D-Calif.) began re-writing the senate's substitute for the Wheeler father draft deferment bill.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed for James Kougher, 64, of R. D. 2, Lisbon, Columbiana county's 17th traffic victim, who died in the East Liverpool City hospital today of injuries suffered when he was struck by a car as he walked along the Lincoln highway, seven miles southeast of Lisbon, Sunday night.

Born in Clearfield county, Pa., he had lived in the Lisbon vicinity 22 years.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. S. E. Reed of the Lisbon-Salem rd. and Mrs. Mary Steffey of Chillicothe, Va., and two brothers, George Kougher of Troutville, Pa., and Edward of Boxelder, Mont.

The body is at the Ellis funeral home in Lisbon.

HUSBAND HELD IN DELAWARE MURDER

DELAWARE, Oct. 13.—First degree murder charges will be filed against Forest Riley, 39, whose wife and sister-in-law were shot to death on the James Horner farm seven miles east of here, Sheriff M. F. Pinney said today.

Deputies Earl Fravel and Robert Milligan reported Riley was arrested yesterday in a building on a nearby farm a few hours after the double slaying and readily admitted shooting his estranged wife, Josephine, 35, and her sister, Mrs. Mary White, 39, during an argument over domestic troubles.

They said Mrs. White was dead when they arrived at the Horner home, but Mrs. Riley lived a short while and told them "Forest" was responsible for the shooting.

Italy's About Face Almost Duplicates First War Action

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Foreign Staff

In declaring war on Germany, her former Axis partner, Italy today completed an about-face which almost duplicates the course she followed in World War I.

Her stand at the side of Germany in the present war ended Sept. 8 when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced the unconditional surrender of the government of Premier Pietro Badoglio.

Actually the armistice was signed on Sept. 3 the day Allied troops invaded the Italian mainland after their 38-day conquest of Sicily.

Since her surrender she has given the Allies some help in the form of organized resistance to German occupation—ordered by the Badoglio government—and a valuable prize in the Italian fleet, but today's action places her once more in the position of turning formally against a power with which she had been allied.

When the first World War began, Italy had a triple alliance with Germany and Austria. She declared, however, that the pact did not call for participation in "aggressive action" and declined to take up arms.

Stayed Neutral 10 Months

She remained neutral for 10 months, then came into the war on the side of the Allies and participated as one of the "big four" in the treaty of Versailles.

Italy's part in the present war has been filled with defeats and increasing German domination.

Theoretically an equal partner of the Axis at the outbreak of the war, she found herself at the time

San Groce In Allied Hands

Captured by Fifth Army; British Seize Riccia And Bonifro

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 13.—Battering down powerful enemy positions in central Italy, Allied troops have pushed nine miles northeast of Portofranco to seize San Groce, while the Eighth army advancing along its entire front captured Riccia and Bonifro, official front line dispatches announced today.

The plunge to San Groce sent deeper northward the spearhead outflanking the strong German Volturno river line.

(Although this dispatch did not identify them, Fifth army troops apparently took San Groce.)

Riccia, seized by the British is only eight miles northeast of San Groce.

Along the Adriatic coastal flank, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops smashed four miles ahead beyond Termoli against strong German resistance.

"Fifth army patrols again have been active and positions gained have been consolidated," a war bulletin said.

Night bombers hammered road junctions around Vasto, 18 miles above Termoli, yesterday, and

Premier Tells Eisenhower of King's Action

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 13.—Premier Pietro Badoglio of Italy, in a broadcast statement released at Allied headquarters, asserted that "the King has given me the task of announcing today, the 13th day of October, the declaration of war against Germany."

The British, Soviet and American governments acknowledged the Italian pledge to submit to the will of the Italian people after the Nazis have been driven from their homeland.

Mr. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin said it was understood that "nothing can detract from the absolute and untrammelled right of the people of Italy by constitutional means to decide on the Democratic form of government they will eventually have."

But in a joint statement they added that the relationship of co-belligerency, of itself, could not affect the armistice terms, which retain their full force and can be adjusted only by agreement among the Allied governments "in the light of the assistance which the Italian government may be able to afford to the United Nations' cause."

Badoglio advised Eisenhower that he took "great pleasure" in informing the general that the Italian king had declared war on Nazi Germany and that the declaration would be handed by the Italian ambassador in Madrid to the German ambassador at 3 p. m. (Greenwich time) today.

The marshal asked Eisenhower to communicate the information to United Nations' governments and to advise the Italian embassies in Ankara and Buenos Aires, and legations in Bern, Stockholm, Lin and Lisbon.

Play German Arrogance
In his proclamation to all Italians, Badoglio recalled that when armistice was signed, his government ordered Italian troops to remain with their arms at rest, prepared to repel any act of violence from any source.

"With a synchronized action which clearly reversed an action previously given by some high authority," Badoglio said, "German troops compelled some of our units to disarm, while in most cases they proceeded to a decisive attack against our troops. But German arrogance and ferocity did not stop here."

"We had already seen some examples of their behavior in the abuses of power, robbery, and violence of all kinds perpetrated in Catania while they were still our Allies. Even more savage incidents against our unarmed populations took place in Calabria, in the Puglie and in the area of Salerno."

But where the ferocity of the enemy surpassed every limit of the human imagination was at Naples. The heroic population of that city, which for weeks suffered every form of torment, strongly cooperated with the Anglo-American troops in putting the hated Germans to flight.

"Italians! There will not be peace in Italy as long as a single German remnant upon our soil is necessary to the enemy."

Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin also spoke of "brutal mistreatment by the Germans of the Italian population," which, coupled with military events since Sept. 8, culminated in Italy's declaration of war.

Renew Blood Donor Appeal In Effort To Register 400

A further appeal for blood donors by the Red Cross was sounded today by officials, who point out that 400 pints of blood are necessary to reach the quota assigned Salem for the eighth donation, Monday and Tuesday.

The quota Salem is asked to reach means that every previous donor and more than a hundred new ones must give this time. Stories of men from all branches of service, from the many battlefronts of the world, who give plasma the credit for saving their lives after being wounded are evidence of the importance of this war service.

Countless men are alive, many of them already back in the fight for freedom, because the plasma made from blood given through the Red Cross donor service started them on the road to recovery from battle injuries. It is pointed out.

Registration of donors must be completed by Friday, Mrs. L. D. Cesana, donor chairman, said today, to permit arranging of appointments. Service headquarters (phone 4500) will be open from 1 to 9 p. m. every day this week.

Ohioan's Crew Sets Air Battle Record

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, Oct. 13.—A new record of 12 German fighters shot down by one bomber on a single raid was set Sunday in the raid on Munster by the Flying Fortress "Ohio Airforce" piloted by Lt. John Richey, Steubenville, O. it was announced today.

The previous record was 11 planes.

The crew said they thought they actually shot down 20 planes in the hectic 90-minute air battle from which they escaped without a scratch but filed claims for only 12. All these were officially corroborated.

The pilot and co-pilot, Lt. Thomas Helman, Medford, Ore., were the only crewmen who didn't make kills and they have no guns.

ALMOST TOO MUCH SATISFACTION

Disclosure by navy spokesmen that the recent bombing and shelling of Wake Island have reduced that outpost to ruins produces an inordinate amount of satisfaction. Further word that the island had been taken over by a landing force would be greeted as a major victory.

The navy's account of the proceedings a week ago produces almost too much satisfaction for comfort, because it reveals clearly that defeat of Japan, second on the war schedule, is anything but second in American desire. Necessity is forcing the United States to accept a situation which otherwise would be intolerable.

At the same time that necessity is dictating less than full measures against Japan, it is giving the Japanese a chance to consolidate and improve their military positions and to exploit the resources they have captured. Everything indicates the assault on Wake Island was one of the heaviest of the war, yet it did not reduce the Japanese on the outpost to impotency; they continued to hold the island.

If the pounding given them proves to be the fore-runner of general action against the Japanese at all places where they shouldn't be it will be one of the unmitigated pleasures of a war which so far hasn't produced many.

THE REFORMATION OF SUCKER SAM

All that was needed, evidently, to set off demand for more attention to American interests was the suggestion by a few senators that this country might be drifting into the wartime role of Sucker Sam again.

The clamor for realism that promptly ensued cannot be ascribed to anything said by the senators, who actually said nothing that hadn't been said before, but must be the result of a widespread feeling that the senators gave official standing to a popular suspicion. Native Yankee shrewdness has not vanished to the extent that most Americans had quit wondering about the outcome of such things as lend-lease, negotiations with Russia, the arsenal of democracy and other catchwords of the times.

Common sense makes it plain to them that Great Britain and Russia, noted for their realism, intend to make as much out of the war as possible, to the extent that they will try to balance their tremendous losses with certain improvements in their positions. That is what Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin owe their countries; that is their obligation as heads of their states. Americans are in a mood at present to make certain that their own government is not losing sight of realism, either.

They are less certain on that point than the British, for instance, who are publicly suspecting us of having grandiose ideas about networks of airplane routes, shipping lanes and new spheres of influence. As the British profess to see it, they merely are taking counter-measures, not trying to outwit their new world cousins. While there is no news of suspicion from Russia, it may be assumed the Russians do not think of the United States as being in a position to get left with the check for World War II, either.

It is essentially a domestic doubt of the practicality of the United States government in international relations that is besetting the American people—a doubt of long standing deepened by current misgivings of a starry-eyed administration that doesn't seem to have decided clearly yet whether to ask for anything in return for lend-lease, or charge off the whole thing to goodwill. However, the very fact the doubt is being aired in public is a good sign. It has placed the government on the defensive with public opinion. Any evidence of Yankee shrewdness from now on will be worth its weight in butter, politically speaking.

MANAGING THE ECONOMY

One recalls the good old days when fixers offered a managed economy as the magic cure for everything. Evidence that managing an economy calls for considerably more sense than Washington has been able to assemble for a war emergency is piling up as fast as the public debt.

The butter follies, which have come to a climax with the announcement that the government managers of the national economy disrupted the supply by buying too much for storage and now will step out of the market till next spring to let civilians have a crack at it—at 16 points a pound—reveal practically all there is to tell about a managed economy.

Like all other types of authoritarian control, its weakness is the self-sufficiency of its arbitrary decisions. Someone decides to do something a certain way, and that is the way it is done, right or wrong. If the decision is wrong, which it is bound to be a good share of the time, the whole country suffers and continues to suffer until the decision can be recalled and changed. Since that means a black eye for government, it is a difficult thing to bring about, whereas a bad decision under free enterprise is subject to recall the instant it affects profit.

There will be more butter available, but at 16 points a pound it will be of interest only to buyers with a surplus of coupons in the proper category. As butter, the situation is of secondary importance; the shortage can be overlooked. But as a sample of what could be expected under managed economy, the incident must be filed away like the mismanagement of railroads under government control a quarter of a century ago—a lesson learned so well no one ever dared propose it again.

Economic misery must be banished and exploitation of the underprivileged no longer tolerated.—Baron C. G. W. H. van Boetzlaer, Netherlands embassy.

Remember how thy Creator in the days of thy youth while the evil days come not, when thou shalt say I have no pleasure in them.—Ecclesiastes 12:1.

LARGE AND significant operations should work out successfully if they are undertaken with well-reasoned plans, sound tactics, and hard work, together with patience, persistence and the will to win. This may be against definite opposition from large interests or superiors, or perhaps want of community or public endorsement. Stability, good judgment and proper manipulation of obstacles or impediment are likely to attract the enthusiastic support of influential persons, won over by novelty, ingenuity and cleverness. Also there is forecast of inheritance or a property windfall.

Those whose birthday it is should have the clear mentality, ingenuity and sound sense to grasp important openings for stabilizing their affairs and possessions, by well-laid plans, sound tactics and the will to forge ahead against impediments or opposition from group or public. All this should have excellent reactions on the private life, possibly to the extent of gifts, trust or inheritance. Industry and application should batter down all limitations and impediments.

Amateur Treatment of Skin Eruptions

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE is probably no class of diseases, not even excepting colds in the head and indigestion, which Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

are quite so universally and commonly treated at home, or by neighbors, as skin eruptions. They seem fated to be left in the hands of amateurs.

While it is supposed to be my duty to deplore self-medication and self-treatment, and I am constantly being reminded by my righteous colleagues that my function is to attempt to explain to the public the nature of diseases so that they will understand why they should go to the doctor, I am not sure but that in the case of skin disease the treatment is not better left in the neighbors' hands, at least until he can see that things are getting worse.

This opinion was strengthened lately when in my little summer community we had quite an epidemic of skin eruptions which were evidently due to contact with plants. My wife, poor wretch, as Mr. Peppy would say, has been doing patriotic gardening and since she is one of those sensitive plants with a hay fever tendency, she erupted and became one of the victims. At the same time one of her close friends also broke out on the skin of the face.

The friend immediately fled to the nearest metropolis and employed one of the most expensive skin specialists in the world. She is still in bed, still erupting, and when last heard from was taking strong sedatives in order to sleep. My wife asked me what to put on her skin and I said, "Oh! some calamine lotion, I guess." I also later suggested some camphophenique, which at least would stop the itching.

Then she found some absorbine in the medicine chest and tried that on her own responsibility. Then one of the neighbors lent her a jar of salve that a doctor had prescribed for her Aunt Jane two years ago and that was also applied. At any rate, the result is that she is entirely cured and again her charming and good natured self, while, as I say, the patient of the expensive skin specialist still languishes in a darkened chamber hitting a bottle of phenobarbital every once in a while.

So I am going to assume that self-treatment of skin diseases is likely to continue and will attempt to direct the amateur in some of the tricks of the trade. One reason, I think, maybe it's all right for a fellow to treat his own skin is that he can see it and if it is not getting any better he can seek some more learned advice.

One of the latest discoveries about the skin is that normally the reaction of the healthy skin is slightly acid, but that as soon as there is a break and serum oozes out, or inflammation occurs, the reaction changes to alkaline. This rather tends to discredit the practice which most amateurs or household dermatologists have of putting soda on any skin eruption first. The baking soda is alkaline and adds to the alkaline reaction of the skin. It explains also why solution of boric acid or aluminum acetate is beneficial, as these neutralize the weeping surface.

As the letter writers say, I see my space is up, and the boys are calling me to play baseball, so I will close now, but return to the subject tomorrow.

K.: I would a husky throat and occasional spitting up about the size of a white bean indicate serious trouble?

Dr. Thomas has provided as many as 150 boys at one time to help in harvesting the huge apple and potato crops this fall. These boys have gone out in three-day shifts. An innovation this year was to send out the entire football squad. Other athletic students have followed.

One boy, Kibbern Church of Shaker Heights, Ohio, picked 82 bushels of apples in one day. The average is about half that number.

745 Boys Aid Projects
Dr. Thomas reports that probably every one of the 745 boys will have helped in some labor project during the year.

Last year the boys shoveled snow for the railroad companies and in the spring they assisted in the preparation of gardens. In addition, because of a shortage of labor in the academy maintenance staff, the Exeter boys assisted in the care of the grounds, work on the athletic fields, and even chopping wood. For all of this work they are paid a standard rate of 40 cents an hour.

While work in the classroom has been interrupted, the faculty has voted to permit any volunteer worker one week in which to make up lost work.

Dr. Thomas attended Salem High school, was graduated from Wooster college in 1929, received an M. A. at Oberlin and a Ph.D. at Harvard. He has been at Exeter since 1936. He is the son of Mrs. Caroline Thomas, Ohio ave.

Mimelating was originated during World War I.

Salem Man's Exeter Boys Picking Crops And Chopping Wood

Dr. Thurlio B. Thomas, former Salem man who is instructor in biology at Phillips Exeter academy, Exeter, N. H., has been keeping the boys at the academy busy during his extra-curricular activities as head of the Student Work program.

The academy is situated in Rockingham county, noted for its apple orchards and potato farms. Fortunately, the frost did not damage the crops in that section this year. As a result, an emergency was created which called for requests from the County Farm bureau and the Agricultural Extension service.

The Crimson Thread by LILIAN LAUFERTY

SYNOPSIS
Glenn is relating the weird story of a reign of terror that put Havenhurst-on-Sound in the headlines. Hilda, author of the radio serial, "Love's Wages," returned to her old family home, Havenhurst, at Havenhurst-on-Sound, a small town in the Everard home when Commodore Henry Knowlton, elderly pompous, calls. He says his "Aunt Flo" thought she "saw" Hilda. Hilda had known the Commodore since childhood. Some blamed him for the accidental death of her parents about years before. He was Pete's guardian. He carried a gold knobbed walking stick with him during a cause clash with his grandson, Henry Knowlton, III, and his setter Rufus, years ago. Hilda aspires all that she did see a day's setter that day. Suddenly a ice from without declares: "You're a ghost with a blow of our cane, Henry." And the Commodore's aged wife, "floated" through the door, seemingly in a ice. Her frowning husband commands: "Come here!"

CHAPTER SEVEN
She moved toward him without willing to have any volition of her own. "I'll take you home," The Commodore's hand grasped her arm and he floated slowly back toward the door under the propulsion of his will. "I came here to attend to something important," she protested. "You know what it was. Tell me." "I can wait," Pete said. "No, no it can't wait," Mrs. Knowlton slid into a chair. Her huffs collapsed around her. She looked like a doll that had been wound up and allowed to run down. "Where's something I've got to do," I followed my husband here to do it." "Never mind about the dog," Nancy said kindly. "We all know about that." "My poor wife is walking in her sleep," the Commodore remarked. "Come, Flo; you're to come home and go back to bed." "I'll do what you say, Henry," I always do what you say. Don't be angry at me. I won't mention what you want forgotten. "I thought: He's made her into a frightened puppet. She's a ghost. An object ghost." "Of course you'll do what I say, my good girl," The Commodore spoke as if they two were alone in the room. I hated his voice even more, now that it was mild and sticky with blandness. "Only I can't go home now," Mrs. Knowlton whimpered. "Henry, I can't go till I've done what I came for—" The Commodore bent as if he were going to drag Mrs. Knowlton to her feet. Then Wing came sliding into the room with fresh coffee and I wondered how Nancy had managed to summon him. Trotting up to the Knowltons, the house boy said: "Maybe Miss Aunt Flo take some fresh black coffee. She feel better when she drink little heat." "Why, Wing?" Mrs. Knowlton spoke with sudden startled clarity. "Wing knows what I need. Wing's practically one of the family. He's an institution—" "He won't be for long," Pete said curtly. "If Nancy doesn't sell a house—and I don't get production of my play before long, the yellow boy will be looking for a job." Wing cleared at Pete. "Wing work plenty hard. Miss Nancy not keep Wing five year, maybe six, if he not worth pay. That show Wing good. Now if she not pay, maybe so she want Wing go look other job. Maybe that show real estate sell no good."

"What it shows," the Commodore said in a frenzied climax to the bad manners prevailing that night, "is that Nancy's husband's no good." Mrs. Knowlton then spoke with sudden, astonishing vitality. "Now I know why I followed you here, Henry. It was to remind you that we must help Nancy and Pete. We mustn't wait till it's too late as we did with Hank. The dog reminded me—" "Stop that!" the Commodore roared. But Mrs. Knowlton persisted. "We can't let Nancy and Pete lose Wing. Nancy's out all day on her own affairs. How can poor Pete write his play if there's nobody to look after him?" "Bosh! Who's interested in his play?" the Commodore growled. Mrs. Knowlton began to recede again. She looked vague and frightened as she said: "Why, I am. You are too, Henry. You don't want to drive another of our young folks to—desperation, do you? You've got to produce his play, Henry. That's what Hank's dog came to warn us about."

The Commodore was livid now. He spoke in a hoarse whisper. "She doesn't know what she's saying. She's walking in her sleep. She doesn't see any of you. Come home now, Flo. You've had all you can bear today." Pete laughed to hide confusion, perhaps. "She's not walking in her sleep. Bravo, Aunt Flo! Show him up! Shame him into untying his purse strings this time."

"I'd like to tie 'em around your blasted neck and choke you with them." But it was the Commodore who choked in sheer rage. Mrs. Knowlton made one last effort. "Don't worry. He'll take care of you. Pete, I'll see to that." The Commodore, purple with anger, shifted his gold-knobbed stick in his hands. For a moment I thought he would use it as I felt certain he had used it on that red setter—and perhaps on me. Then the old man dropped his hands to his side and the stick clattered to the floor. The terrifying look on his face wasn't any more startling than the blandness with which he said suddenly: "Oh yes, I'll take care of Pete. Just leave him to me, Flo."

"Did you—take care of—the dog?" Peter asked slowly, pointedly. The Commodore stared at him appraisingly. Then he replied calmly: "I sent for the vet and had the poor creature put out of its misery." That ended the scene. Very soon after, despite Nancy's halfhearted remonstrances, we went home. Next morning, when I went upstairs to count the linens, Mrs. Higgins followed me. "Miss Hilda!" she asked, "why ever did you come back here? The place is really haunted—and you look as if you knew it."

"That's absurd. There aren't any such things as ghosts," I said and tried to go on with my count of napkins. "I don't believe in ghosts either," Mrs. Higgins agreed. "All that haunts a person is what they've done that isn't right. If a body has caused three deaths, they'll do anything to lay the ghosts of their own raising."

I lost all count of the linens. "What are you trying to tell me?" I asked, and was startled by her sudden answer. "Did you ever know that young Mr. Hank Knowlton wasn't drowned off the Florida Keys?" "You mean—he's alive?" I gasped.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

*Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25c. You will be glad you did.

CITES NEWSPAPERS' POST-WAR SERVICE

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Howard D. Hoyde, consultant with the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, said today that American newspapers "must show the way" in post-war community relations programs. "Community relations, purposefully conceived, is a public relations program of the business community acting jointly and concurrently under the leadership of business itself," he said. "It is responsible to all people in the community, and its end desire is better living for all."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association, Inc., he said trade associations would play "a tremendous part" in post-war planning, as they were "the American businessman's greatest single source of practical help."

Small-town newspapers, he remarked, have an important influence on community relations and opinions.

"The Washington influence never outweighs the combined home town opinions," he said.

NAZIS PICKED WRONG NORWEGIAN VILLAGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The United States board on geographical names gave a horse laugh today to the German military "experts" who spent two years fortifying the wrong town.

Dr. Meredith F. Burrill, director of the board, in a report to Interior Secretary Ickes, told of three towns in the west central section of Norway, all named Leikanger. "One Leikanger, a small village," said Burrill, "is in the political division of More and two are in Sogn Og Fjordane."

"Seemingly without checking, the German high command issued orders to fortify Leikanger in Sogn Og Fjordane. The Nazi commander in that section of Norway only knew of one Leikanger in Sogn and he picked the wrong one."

"He worked for two years at building a fortification before a new Nazi super-supervisor discovered the error."

Average salary of a Washington government girl is less than $1,800 a year.

DEFENSE DIRECTORS TO PLAN OHIO TESTS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone said today he would confer here Friday with John B. Martin, acting director of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense, on plans for future blackouts in the Ohio area.

Stone asserted the 100-mile area south of the Great Lakes is still considered by Army and OGD officials as a potential target zone and said the feasibility of holding blackouts and other local defense council policies would be discussed in line with changed car conditions.

Others who will attend the meeting will be Gov. John W. Bricker, who is chairman of the Ohio Council of Defense, and Col. M. G. Henley, acting regional director of the Office of Civilian Defense.

Say Pope Will Not Flee Vatican City

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 13.—Pope Pius XII apparently intends to remain in Vatican City even if Rome becomes a battleground, reports from Italy indicated today.

The Pope has been continuing his usual activities, these unconfirmed advices continued, and, although the papal guard of the Holy See has been increased, the Vatican's defense remains purely symbolic as the Swiss guards are ordered never to use their rifles.

The Germans with three divisions in Rome have taken the Vatican "under protection," but German soldiers have not stepped inside the Catholic religious center nor has any move been taken to interfere with the Pope, dispatches from Rome said.

With the war zone drawing closer to Rome, the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Demokraten said, it was learned privately that the Pope had declined a German offer for a safe refuge in Lichtenstein.

The German minister to the Vatican was understood, the Svenska Demokraten said, to have told the Pope that Rome would soon be a battle center and Germany could not guarantee the safety of the Holy See.

Surprise U. S. Attack On Jap-Held Wake Took Immense Toll

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sea and air forces of the Pacific fleet battered Wake Island for two days last week. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported Sunday that the attack resulted in the destruction of at least 61 enemy planes, two ships and numerous shore installations at a cost of 13 American aircraft. Associated Press War Correspondent Eugene Burns, who accompanied a Navy task force on the raid, supplies additional details.

By EUGENE BURNS ABOARD AN AIRCRAFT CARRIER, Oct. 10.—(Delayed)—The greatest carrier task force ever assembled lambasted Japanese-held Wake Island from dawn Oct. 5 to mid-afternoon Oct. 6 with 1,051 tons of bombs and shells and replete without drawing a retaliatory punch.

Once again the Japanese were caught by surprise.

We were within easy striking distance of Japan's Marshall island air bases (south of Wake) for four days. The enemy made several attempts to penetrate our Hellcat fighter screen, but not one Japanese plane squeezed through.

At Wake approximately 350 bombs and shells were rained on the enemy, some of the waves of Hellcat-escorted Dauntless dive-bombers swept in scores of planes strong.

Cruisers accompanied by destroyers steamed within binocular sight of Wake the first afternoon and for two hours pumped 454 tons of high explosives into the quaking atoll.

Oil stores were set afire. Sections of warehouse districts were destroyed. A large barracks or administration building burned to the ground. Three power plants and two water distillation plants were damaged. And the Japanese radio at Wake went off the air.

After the surface ships completed their bombardment, land-based navy four-engine bombers came over and dropped their destructive loads on an already burning Wake. Although combat losses among all American forces involved were 13 planes, seven of their crew members were rescued.

Enemy planes were in the air as soon as the first alarm was raised, but almost from the beginning air control over the island was absolute. The initial blow stunned the enemy air force, and subsequent reinforcements brought in from the Marshalls in dribs and drabs, six and eight planes each were knocked out of the air as fast as they arrived, when they did not, they were withdrawn.

Moscow Reaffirms Second Front Talk

MOSCOW, Oct. 13.—In the first announcement here that the tri-power conference would be held in Moscow, the Communist party or-gan Pravda let the world know to-day the Soviets do not intend to discuss frontiers or the status of the Baltics, declaring firmly that the second front and complete de-feat of Hitler is the question before the meeting.

It was believed in Washington, London and elsewhere that Secre-tary of State Cordell Hull would be the U. S. representative at the con-ference. London has announced that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden would head the British dele-gation.

"It should be known to everyone," Pravda said, "that the borders of the Soviet union could no more serve as a subject of discussion than, for instance, the borders of the United States or the status of China."

McCarthy Says Championship Spirit Is Key To Success

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

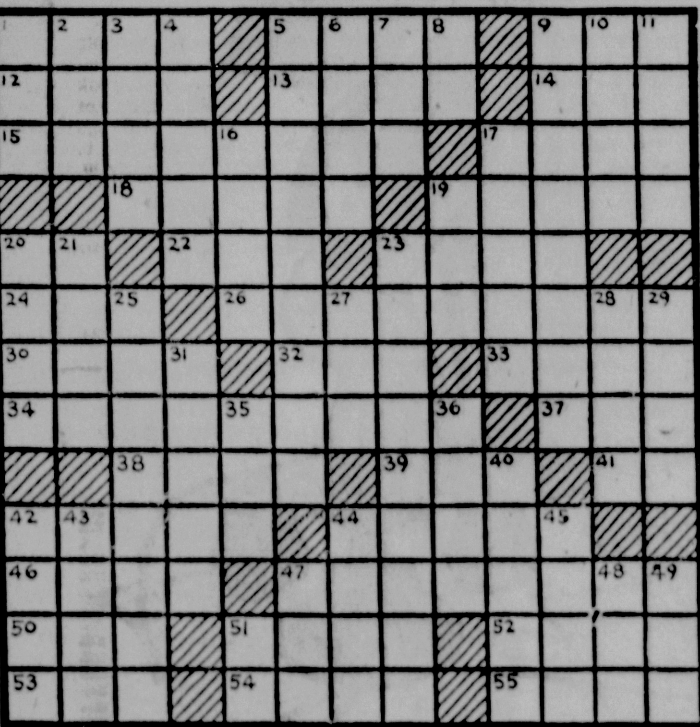

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Much to the surprise, the football experts are learning that some 17-year-old kids can play pretty good football. After reaching the broadcasting coop for the Michigan-Notre Dame game, Bill discovered that the only chair available was so high that he couldn't talk into the mike. So he located a saw somewhere and cut off the legs.

Jim Thorpe, still most people's idea of Mr. Football, has four sons enrolled in Oklahoma Indian schools, two at Cherokee and two at Pawnee. Jim turned down several good offers in his home state to return to his job with the Ford company in Detroit. Pete Cawthon, the football Dodgers' coach, claims that Sammy Baugh looks better every time Pete sees him. "We beat him in college when we could rush him," says Cawthon. "Now he could pass in a rocking chair and we'd never touch him."

Richmond's nominee for the season's outstanding hard-luck footballer is Halfback Paul Jack of Thomas Jefferson High school. In his final game last season, Jack had a 60-yard touchdown run called back for an offside. In his first three games this season he had payoff sprints of 45, 50 and 70 yards nullified. In between he managed to make three touches that did count.

Al Del Greco, Hackensack (N.J.) Bergen Record: "Few managers can walk down the street with Miss Adversity and come up smiling. Maybe Connie Mack wouldn't be affected. But he's used to the old gal. She's been sitting in his lap for many years now."

Malaria Still No. 1 Enemy, U. S. Troops Find In War Zones

By PAUL J. C. FRIEDLANDER, AP Feature Writer

More dangerous than any secret weapon yet conceived by man are the salivary glands of the Anopheles mosquito. In normal times, medical authorities estimate, these mosquitoes cause 300,000,000 cases of malarial fevers throughout the world each year with two to three million resultant deaths.

Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, navy surgeon general, once described malaria as "a much more deadly enemy than any foe we may be called upon to face."

This is especially true in this global war when millions of men are being moved from normally malaria-free areas to the mosquito-filled tropics. The incidence of this dread disease is so high and its fever destroys the effectiveness of troops so thoroughly that in World War I malaria was virtually more deadly to both sides than the enemy.

The number of malaria infections and deaths among American Allied troops is a military secret. It is no secret that malaria helped lick the Americans on Bataan.

Military excursions and even great civilizations have been destroyed by malaria. Medical historians credit it with a major role in the decay of Greece, and mosquitoes from the swamps of southern Italy and the Pontine marshes are said to have contributed to the decline of the Roman empire.

Union armies in the War Between the States lost 94,000 dead through battle injuries and 186,000 to diseases. Prophylactic measures in World War I sharply reduced the proportion to 58,000 deaths from disease against 50,000 from battle wounds. Medical authorities are hopeful the great advancements in military medicine will be reflected when the score is in for World War II.

American troops now move into battle in the tropics with mosquito nets for field tents and helmets. Specially trained sanitation troops drain swamps, cover stagnant water with effective pyrethrum oils.

Engineer officers in selecting troop concentration areas strive to pick malaria-free sections on high ground. These considerations might even be weighed in planning invasions of Europe, for Greece, the Balkans, Italy and Sardinia have many malaria breeding grounds.

Most promising developments in the fight on malaria are a new fly and mosquito repellent that is rubbed on exposed parts of the body; and an insect bomb that kills all insects in an enclosed area within one minute. Its vapors are not toxic to humans.

There is no specific cure nor preventive for malaria. Quinine, plasmodium, and atabrine, the German-discovered synthetic substitute for quinine, suppress clinical symptoms and check sporozoids in the blood stream but none of them insure a permanent cure.

When the Dutch East Indies fell, practically the entire source of the world's quinine came into Japanese control. American pharmaceutical houses already were making atabrine however and supplies now are reported to be adequate for our armies.

Field trials are now being given several promising drugs for the prevention of malaria. It may well be that one of the world's greatest benefits from this war will be the development of a drug that will successfully prevent malaria.

Time Out

Injured Leetonia Football Star Not Used to Sidelines

Playing almost an entire football game on a broken leg isn't such a remarkable thing to do; at least you wouldn't think so if you talked with blond, curly headed Ed Duco star Leetonia left half after the Salem-Leetonia game Friday night.

Duco was hit early in the first quarter by two Salem tacklers while attempting to gain on an intended pass play and had his left tibia broken just above the ankle. He was down for a minute, but bounced right up again and played the rest of the game limping.

"It hurt like the dickens but I thought it was just a sprained ankle and would be gone before the game was over," Duco said last night.

On Bench This Week
The Leetonia star didn't realize how badly he was hurt until he tried to sleep that night after he had been to see the doctor but didn't find him at home. Duco laid awake all night Friday and went to the doctor Saturday morning. X-rays showed the leg was actually broken. According to the physician, the firm manner in which the leg had been taped and the support given by the high football shoe, accounts for the game Duco was able to play.

The worst thing about the whole affair is that the halfback won't be able to be in the Leetonia-Columbiana game this Saturday; at least, that is the feeling that he thinks is most regrettable. It will be the first game that Duco has missed since starting to play varsity ball with the Leetonia school when he was a freshman in 1941. He has played most of the time since then for a total of 22 football contests.

Good Ground Gainer
One of the most remarkable things about the performance is that Duco's ball carrying after he was injured netted almost half of Leetonia's yards gained in rushing. He toted the piskin 13 times after his leg was broken for an average of almost five yards on each play and a total of 50 yards through the line. He also passed for another 50 yards gain and did the Leetonia kicking.

His three years of football with Leetonia all have been stellar seasons for him, as he has led the team to 10 wins in their last 11 ball games before the Salem fray. In 1941, Duco was a substitute for Murphy, the Murphy-Stumpo combination that gave all opposition something to worry about. He was in every game that season and played a major part in the 6 to 0 tie at Salem on Thanksgiving afternoon.

Football Family
Football is nothing new in the Duco family as Ed's father, Andrew Duco, played with Leetonia back in the years following the first World War. Ed has two younger brothers, Lawrence, who will take over his brother's position on the Leetonia squad this week against Columbiana, and George, a 12-year-old, who spends most of his time footballing with the neighborhood team.

"The doctor didn't set a time for me to play again," Ed said last night, "but I think I'll be in there for the Lisbon game in about three weeks."

Luckman and Baugh Seeking Pro Football 1943 Passing Title

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Foremost in the National Football league's statistical race is the feud between Sammy Baugh of the Washington Redskins and Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears for the 1943 passing title.

With Cecil Isbell back at his old haunts at Purdue as assistant coach, Luckman and Baugh have a free hand to strike for one of the league's most coveted honors. However, at this early stage Rookie Ronnie Cahill of the Chicago Cardinals is keeping stride with the two veterans.

Although Luckman gave the former Holy Cross player a lesson in passing Sunday when the Bears beat the Cards, 20-9, Cahill has a record of 24 completions in 45 attempts for a gain of 278 yards.

Luckman, taking third place behind Isbell and Baugh in the aerial division last year, is throwing as never before. He leads the league with 27 completions in 51 attempts, gaining 550 yards and hurling for six touchdowns.

AS TOLD BY THE CONSERVATION DIVISION

Old Guard Members
Luckman and Baugh head the "old guard" contingent which pushed aside the league's freshmen this week in individual accomplishments. Tony Canadeo of Green Bay took over as the leading ball carrier with 187 rushing yards and also topped the list in total offense with 365. Detroit's freshmen, Frankie Sinkwich and Chuck Fenerbuck, dropped to second and third in ground-gaining with 153 and 141 yards, respectively. Canadeo's average gain a run is 7.2, bettered only by the 7.7 of his teammate, Joe Laws, whose running has accounted for 139 yards.

Veteran Eddie Rucinski, Cardinal end, was the best pass receiver with nine catches for 150 yards, while the 1942 champion, Don Hutson of Green Bay, has accepted eight for 124. Each has scored once.

Dean McAdams of Brooklyn, runner-up to Baugh for last year's punting title, is trying to clinch this time after averaging 40.9 yards on 17 kicks. Green Bay's Lou Brock has the best average, 41 yards, but has punted only five times.

Yanks' Manager Declares That's How His Baseball Club Has Won 7 Pennants

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—This is a story about why the New York Yankees have won seven American league pennants and six world championships of baseball in the last eight years.

It also is a story about Joseph Vincent McCarthy, the 56-year-old Irishman who is the manager of the Yankees.

Coming back on the train from St. Louis, where the Yankees had just finished trampling on the Cardinals, McCarthy was sitting up late at night in a diner.

"You'd think I would be able to sleep tonight," Joe said, "but I can't. Now that the pressure is off I just want to sit here and relax."

Someone stopped to congratulate McCarthy and told him he had done a great job with a bad ball club.

The hot Irish temper flamed up in McCarthy and he retorted in a bristling voice: "Who says it is a bad ball club? I never said it was."

Spirit Was There
"I'll tell you something," he continued, his tone mellowing. "I knew at Asbury park last spring that this ball club would win the pennant."

"I knew it, and I'll tell you why. It had the championship spirit. That's what wins pennants."

"You can look at a player and tell if he's a champion. If he is then it doesn't make a lot of difference about his batting average, or about his making errors now and then. If he's champion he'll win for you."

There is McCarthy's own formula for victory. It is only complete, however, when you add that the manager himself has the championship spirit more intensely than any of his players.

McCarthy's whole life is devoted to winning and nothing less than victory satisfies him.

Yet there was more to the Yankee's triumph this year than just spirit. There was expert handling of players and maneuvering of a pitching staff which was sometimes unpredictable.

Ed Barrow, known as Cousin Ed to every red-hot New York Yankee fan, rested easier today in his hospital room, happy because his club had won another World Series.

Barrow, business manager of the Yankees since 1920 and president since the death of owner Cal. J. Ruppert, was brought to the hospital last Friday suffering from a heart ailment and arthritis.

Return Bout Booked
CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Lee Savold of Paterson, N. J., meets Eddie Blunt here Oct. 22, in an attempt to avenge the upset victory over him at Akron last week by the Brooklynite. The heavyweight bout is scheduled for 12 rounds. Matchmaker Larry Atkins announced.

Yank Official Is Ill
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Ed Barrow, known as Cousin Ed to every red-hot New York Yankee fan, rested easier today in his hospital room, happy because his club had won another World Series.

Barrow, business manager of the Yankees since 1920 and president since the death of owner Cal. J. Ruppert, was brought to the hospital last Friday suffering from a heart ailment and arthritis.

SECY. ICKES FREES U. S. COAL MINES

Government Restores All Companies to Private Supervision

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — Interior Secretary Ickes restored the nation's coal mines to the owners today, a tacit vote of trust that the operators and the union now can work out a contract which will set up conditions for increased production.

Ickes, government operator of the pits since President Roosevelt stepped into the labor dispute and ordered the seizure May 1, announced last night that he was ending the arrangement.

In this final action Ickes returned 1,700 mines to the private operators. He had relinquished operation of the other 1,600 over recent weeks, satisfied that production had been stabilized.

The secretary emphasized that he thought a much-needed boost in coal output could be accomplished best by the achievement of a contract with the United Mine Workers.

coal for the government until Oct. 31.

The next step toward assured coal production for the impending winter appeared today to be up to the War Labor Board.

A sample contract for the bituminous coal miners, reached by the union and the Illinois operators, now is before the WLB for its approval, along with a complete contract for the anthracite workers.

WLB approval of the Illinois pact might serve as a guide for action on a contract applying to the entire soft coal industry.

The union still must convince the board however that its demanded pay for underground travel time — portal-to-portal — is not a device for obtaining a general wage increase violating the "hold the line" policy against inflation. A previous Illinois contract was rejected for that very reason.

fighter-bombers struck at enemy gun positions and trains in the Termoli area.

Night-flying fleets also blasted at railroad bridges and yards at Civitavecchia 40 miles northwest of Rome.

No Allied planes were lost.

A broadcast last night by Radio France at Algiers said American troops had advanced more than 14 miles in the last 24 hours, penetrating deep into the mountains.

The Fifth army is beginning to turn the German flank on the Volturno river front north of Benevento, with the Germans making a tougher stand, said this broadcast heard by the British ministry of information.

Radio France at Algiers announced this morning that since the liberation of Corsica, the Germans had sent 29 new divisions into France, guarding against an invasion there.

In Cairo the RAF announced that heavy bombers, continuing the bombing of the Dodecanese, had hammered Maritza a field on Rhodes Monday night, and other planes hit the harbor of Cos last night. One RAF plane was lost.

RAF bombers harried Nazi communications in the Adriatic sector, and two hours before dawn today RAF Wellingtons battered railway bridges and yards at Civitavecchia on the west coast causing heavy damage to these transportation furlms.

Photographs of the American fortress raid on the Tatoi airfield near Athens Sunday disclosed that a third of the enemy planes on the ground there had been destroyed.

REDUCED GASOLINE SUPPLIES FORESEEN

Quality Also Will Become Poorer, OWI Says In Prediction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Civilian drivers were bidden by the Office of War Information today to expect poorer gasoline and less of it, because a big share of the fuel produced in the east, southeast and midwest must be shipped abroad in 1944 and 1945.

The domestic gasoline shortage will "intensify for the duration," said an OWI report on civilian supplies, and even the Pacific coast, which now has high stock levels, faces the prospect of "more severe rationing."

OWI conceded several governmental errors in the handling of the gasoline problem but contended that:

"The government has met military demands fully—demands unprecedented in modern warfare. It has maintained essential civilian transportation, although at times with difficulties."

Civilians are getting 1,200,000 barrels of gasoline daily, instead of the 1,700,000 they got in 1941, OWI said. The military now is getting 30.6 per cent of all gasoline produced east of the Rocky mountains, but next year will get 36.6 per cent and in 1945, 39.6 per cent.

"Not only will there probably be less automobile gasoline, but its quality will become progressively poorer," OWI said. Increasing use of tetra-ethyl lead for fueling aircraft and military vehicles means "further curtailment of this component in civilian gasoline, with a consequent decline in motor and mileage performance."

An error in estimating "off-the-highway" use of gasoline—farm tractors, sawmills, and the like—contributed to this year's drain on east coast supplies, OWI disclosed. In the absence of records on such use, allocations were based on estimates. When coupons began coming back to ration boards it was discovered that off-the-highway use was four times greater than reckoned.

Until allocations were corrected Oct. 1, the east was using 35,000 barrels a day more than its allocation, with the excess coming out of reserves. Over-issuance of passenger car coupons also was a factor.

ful if not happy hunting ground. For Hitler's under-water pack. Warplanes based on the Azores can reach this area, and the protection will be particularly useful for our convoys going through the Mediterranean—a vastly important feature.

IT'S A MATTER of extreme satisfaction that we have this development just as Secretary of the Navy Knox returns to his desk in Washington after his war-zone tour to warn that the renewed warfare of the German submarines in the north Atlantic is "very serious."

"Let's not make a mistake about it," said the secretary. "Submarine warfare will be serious to the end of the war."

Germany's reaction to Portugal's move is awaited with keen interest. Up to this writing, Berlin has been moving with extreme caution. German radio spokesmen have been trying to minimize the importance of the event, saying that Lisbon's general foreign policy presumably will be unaltered, which is to say that Portugal doesn't intend to make war on Germany.

However, it cannot but have a dampening effect on the Germans to see this further demonstration that the little countries are rapidly losing their fear of the great military machine which long terrified them. This will be driven home by recognition of the fact that, while Hitler might take revenge by some such move as the bombing of Lisbon, there is no way in which he can get at Portugal with advantage to himself, since Spain lies between him and his little tormentor. In short, if the Fuehrer is smart, he will hold his nose and swallow the medicine.

Actually, a "neutral" Portugal has been and may continue to be a mighty useful both to the Germans and the Allies. Lisbon is one of the grandest listening posts in the world. There the secret agents of all the belligerents congregate as thick as flies to pick up information. They rub shoulders on the streets, drink at the same bars, dine at neighboring tables, and search one another's rooms and baggage. It is an amazing set-up, but one which is agreeable to all parties.

P-47's Down Eight

Japanese Planes

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 13.—Japan's badly mauled New Guinea airforce now has to reckon with a new sky menace—the P-47 Thunderbolt.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today that four of these new fighters piled into 32 Japanese fighters over Wewak, New Guinea, Monday and sent at least eight down to join the approximately 500 enemy aircraft which have been wiped out there since mid-August. Two others may have gone down.

The four Thunderbolts were unscathed.

One Thunderbolt pilot, Col. N. E. Kearby, 32, of Dallas and San Antonio, Tex., got five Japanese planes to become an ace in a single engagement.

But the Japanese airforce got in some licks elsewhere. The communiqué said the enemy raided Guadalcanal on an unspecified date and caused damage to American shipping in those Solomon waters.

Other enemy planes struck 11 times at General MacArthur's newly acquired air base of Lae, New Guinea.

In ground fighting, headquarters said that Australians mopping up northwest of captured Finschhafen had killed 400 Japanese. Other Aussies moving along the Ramu valley against the enemy coastal base of Madang continued to oust the enemy from outpost positions on high ground.

General Beightler Wins Service Medal

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Major Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commander of the 37th division, received the Distinguished Service medal for "inspiring leadership" against the Japanese on New Georgia island in the Solomons, the War department announced.

General Beightler's "repeated presence" with forward elements during combat helped maintain high morale and was the principal factor in the forward drive of the troops over extremely difficult terrain, the citation reported.

Members of the division returning home have reported that the general, former Ohio highway director, once established his headquarters but a few hundred yards from enemy positions.

General Beightler's citation read: "Under his inspiring leadership and despite a well-organized defense by a determined enemy, the divisions assigned objective was captured in a minimum of time. General Beightler's repeated presence with the forward elements of his division during combat was largely responsible for the high morale of his command and its forward drive over extremely difficult terrain. He contributed in great measure to the success of the entire operation."

G. O. P. CONVENTION STRENGTH BOOSTED

Increase of 58 Delegates Over 1940 Reported by National Office

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The 1944 Republican national convention will have a delegate voting strength of 1,058, an increase of 58 over 1940, with 30 states and Hawaii showing gains in delegates and five states losses due to revised allocations designed to stimulate Republican voting.

This is on the basis of an unofficial tabulation at GOP national headquarters today. It will not be made official until the national committee meets in December or January to select a convention city.

The 1940 convention at Philadelphia adopted new rules rewarding more delegates the states and districts that got out the Republican vote and—with an eye chiefly on the south—penalizing states and districts that didn't.

The 10 states that cast their electoral votes for Wendell Willkie in 1940—Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and Vermont—will get a bonus of three delegates at large.

Eleven other states will benefit by a three-delegate bonus for electing Republican senators in 1942 after failing to go Republican in the 1940 presidential race. They are Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Oregon, West Virginia and Wyoming.

Texas will have the largest delegate gain—seven—in the next convention.

On the loss side, South Carolina will head the list with six fewer delegates due to failure to poll a thousand votes in any of its six districts in the last congressional elections.

Mississippi will have five fewer delegates, Ohio and Pennsylvania lose two each, and Georgia one.

Theatre

"Background to Danger" shows at the State tonight with Peter Lorre, Brenda Marshall, George Raft and Sydney Greenstreet in the leading roles. The action in the film begins when George Raft, who portrays the role of a G-man, is handed a letter, supposedly containing money and securities, which turns out to contain material that Nazi agents are after at any cost. Raft is kidnapped by the Gestapo but is rescued by Peter Lorre and Brenda Marshall, playing two Russian counter-espionage agents.

"The Constant Nymph," billed at the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday, tells the story of Lewis Dodd, a young composer (Charles Boyer) who is loved by Tessa Sanger (Joan Fontaine), an adolescent girl he has always considered a child. He married a beautiful society girl, Alexis Smith, only to find out when it is too late that he has always loved Tessa.

Showing at the Grand for the last time tonight is a double feature, "Honeymoon Lodge" and "Revenge of the Zombies."

Roy Rogers portrays the hero in the western film, "Man From Music Mountain," scheduled at the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Nation's Star Farmer

(By Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13.—His livestock, that ruled out college, made him 4-F in the draft, and kept him down on the farm, today had boosted 19-year-old Wayne Boothe of Cordell, Okla., to the title of Star Farmer of America.

He overcame a severe injury to earn the 1943 title, conferred last night at the Future Farmers of America national convention.

Last spring young Boothe suffered five fractures of his left arm in a feed-grinder accident on the 320-acre farm he operates, but he still managed to take care of his crops and 139 head of cattle, sheep and hogs.

His animals have caused him to be classified 4-F in the draft, he related, and will keep him from attending college.

Three years ago two of his hogs started fighting at a fair. Wayne tried to separate them, but suffered a broken leg. Later, when he tried to volunteer for naval aviation, he was rejected and classified 4-F because of the leg.

The $500 award as Star Farmer will be used "to buy a really good Shorthorn heifer."

GIRL DENIES PART

IN FARM MURDERS

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 13.—Janice Graham, blonde 20-year old farm girl, pleaded innocent today when arraigned on charges of being an accessory in the slaying of three persons last Thursday on the Everett Wilson dairy farm near here.

She waived a hearing for her appearance at the December term of criminal court and was held without bond.

District Attorney Edwin C. Moon charged in an information that Miss Graham "aided, abetted, and counseled" William Albert Morell, a farm hand, also 20, who already had pleaded guilty to murder charges in the slayings of Mrs. Everett Wilson, 46, her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 76, and Robert McKay, 70, a farm hand.

Miss Graham and Morell were arrested in a farmhouse near Claridon, O., last Friday night.

of the Allied invasion of the mainland reduced to German vassalage and the object of German scorn.

Italy's casualties while fighting at the side of Germany were considerable, although nothing like those suffered by Germany on the Russian front, and a total of nearly 1,000,000 Italian prisoners now are in Allied prison camps.

The split with Germany began July 25 when Mussolini was ousted from power and placed under guard by the Badoglio government, only to be liberated by the Nazis who immediately set him up in business again as head of a puppet "republican Fascist" government.

Badoglio, who took over the Italian premiership, negotiated the surrender with the Allies and called upon Italian troops to cease fighting American and British forces but to "oppose attacks from any other quarter."

The premier and King Vittorio Emanuele have been cooperating with Allied commanders in Allied-held Italian territory, to which they fled only a few hours after the announcement of the armistice.

Cleveland Zoo Keeper

Is Killed by Leopard

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Bozo, a male spotted leopard, killed 62-year-old keeper John Thomas at the Cleveland zoo today.

Thomas was found lying in the cage, his jugular vein severed. Attendants drove the leopard into another cage.

"We are at a loss to understand how it could have happened," declared Fletcher Reynolds, zoo director.

Thomas had been a zoo employee for four years, and frequently fed the lions, tigers and leopards.

Several years ago, a polar bear at the zoo, located at Brookside park, clawed and critically injured a young woman who was sketching beside the bear's cage.

Ohio Corn Stocks Move Marketward

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—One of the largest stocks of old corn in the state's history is moving to market.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting service disclosed farmers had 22,575,000 bushels of corn on hand Oct. 1, nearly double the 12,968,0
